Old Time Train on View At Portland and Berlin Stations

Complete with three ancient engines, one a wood-burner; an early sleeping car, old diner and venerable coach along with three ancient baggage cars carrying more than 5,000 individual historical exhibits, the Canadian National Museum train will visit Portland, Friday to Monday, Aug. 14-17, and Berlin, N. H., next Wednesday and Thursday.

The only mobile museum in the world will be operated through northern New England in August when it will travel over the 100-year-old Atlantic and St. Lawrence Railroad, now part of the Canadian National Railways System, from the international border at Island Pond, Vt., through New Hampshire and Maine to Portland. The train, restored by the Canadian National Railways, consists of three locomotives and six cars, which are themselves museum pieces, carries hundreds of exhibits related to North American railroading from 1835 to the present.

The train, limited to a speed of 15 miles an hour, passed through Bethel Wednesday.

The museum train will be on public exhibit at the Grand Trunk station in Portland, August 14, 15, 16 and 17; at Berlin, N. H., August 19 and 20; and at Island Pond, Vt., August 21.

The train is staffed by retired railroaders dressed in the style of costume worn by crews a hundred years ago. The authenticity of the equipment, furnishings and men-at-arms in the museum train has been established by careful research extending over the past three years.

Mogul No. 974, of 1899, the oldest locomotive still operating on the CNR, is hauling the train. Other motive power includes wood burner No. 40, the first standard gauge engine ordered by the Grand Trunk—it was a whiz back in 1872 and was built in Portland—and a saddle tank switcher of 1894 with its water tank straddling the boiler.

SQUARE DANCE SATURDAY

BIG EVENT AT FARMINGTON

As one of the outstanding attractions of its summer dance series, the Oxford County Square Dance Association will bring to the State of Maine on Saturday, August 15 at the Alumni Gymnasium in Farmington, Michael and Mary Ann Herman of New York City. The Hermans are recognized throughout the country as the foremost authorities on world wide folk dances. They are the directors of the famous Folk Dance House in New York City, where both experienced and beginning folk dancers from all over the world enjoy sharing folklore and folk dances with the Hermans. Michael and Mary Ann are also well-known among New England folk dancers, having directed for the past three years the Maine Folk Dance Camp held at Bridgton each June. They are also the publishers of the well-known Folk Dancer records and many books on folk dancing. Michael, a graduate of Juillard School of Music, with his folk dance orchestra, has also made many of the folk dance records for Victor and other leading record companies. They will bring to Maine many of the simple folk dances of other countries.

The program will open at the Alumni Gymnasium in Farmington at 8:30 p. m. with a workshop session with the Hermans. It will continue with a picnic supper, followed by a gala party in celebration of the Hermans' 15th wedding anniversary at 8 p. m.

As a special added feature George Mosher, Farmington's own champion fiddler, will be on hand, together with his accompanist, Miss Zilda Brown, also of Farmington, to play for square and contra dancing. New contras, square dances and the old time Lancers Quadrille will help to fill out the fun packed program of the day. Anyone interested is invited to attend. Special invitations have been extended to members of all the folk and square dance organizations in the State.

TURN OF THE CENTURY GOULD ALUMNI MEETING

It was in happy, holiday mood that a group of oldsters, grey-haired but with hearts both young and gay assembled Sunday, Aug. 9, at Evans Notch Lodge, Gilead, for their first reunion. Five classes were well represented 1901-1905 inclusive.

Several letters were read from absent classmates.

After a delicious dinner of roast turkey or lobster salad, a business meeting was held. Paul Thurston (1905) was elected president and Gwen Stearns (1904) sec-treas. It was further voted to meet each year in August and to try to contact more ex-members of the class.

KEEP MAINE HIGHWAYS CLEAN

John B. Church, Superintendent of Maintenance, State Highway Department, today urged motorists to cooperate with the effort to keep Maine highways clean.

"The practice of throwing trash on the highway is an expensive one for the State's taxpayers," he said. "In 1951, 5,507 cu. yds. of trash was gathered up at a cost of $25,852."

This money which is siphoned off for clearing our highways of trash could be used for further maintenance," he continued. "With the great need for highway improvement today, every motorist is being cheated out of getting the fullest use of his tax dollar by this careless, inconsiderate practice of littering our highways."

"In the interest of economy and of preserving our scenery," he added, "I urge every motorist to refrain from tossing rubbish from his car."

Professor of Sociology, College Saint, Atlanta

A Disturbing Textbook Analysis

There has just come to my attention a highly professional analysis of sociology textbooks which should be read by every school teacher, college professor and parent in America. It brings to light shocking facts about some textbooks now widely used in high schools and colleges of the country. The author, Dr. A. H. Hobbs, professor of sociology at the University of Pennsylvania, says some of the most widely used sociology textbooks are distorting facts, using devices and subtle techniques to convince high school and college youth:

1. That religion should discard mysticism, supernaturalism, ritual, and tradition and "adjust to conditions of modern society" by concentrating on crusades against certain economic and social conditions.

2. That educational practices and principles which involve discipline or drill, and the teaching of traditional beliefs about the government, the family, or the economic system are inefficient and harmful.

3. That government should actively provide people with security, equality, happiness, and developed personalities; that increased governmental control over business and industry is the most important step toward attainment of the desired goals; but that such controls constitute only one phase of broader social planning.

4. That maldistribution of wealth and income, and unemployment, are the outstanding characteristics of our private enterprise economic system, and that government control of business and planning by "social engineers" will eliminate maldistribution and will provide people with security.

5. That social controls which operate in relation to the family, religion, and traditional forms of education are irrational and give rise to "cultural lag," and that rationality should be the criterion of social control.

6. That social controls in America are no better or worse than those in other countries — which include Communist Russia and Communist China.

7. That the rising divorce rate may be a good sign — it is more nearly a harbinger of family reorganization than an index of disorganization; and that "companionate marriages are desirable."

8. That heredity and innate tendencies are relatively unimportant in personality formation and motivation, and that personality is formed largely through "cultural conditioning."

Dr. Hobbs cites other controversial conclusions which he contends are fostered by the most widely used sociology textbooks. In his work he analyzed the content of 30 widely used texts which he considered as constituting the "heart" of college the best man school sociology — the most widely expanding course of study in American education. His book is entitled, "The Chains of Knowledge: A Critique of Textbooks." The publisher is The Macmillan Company, New York, N. Y.

The Danger
Attention is directed to this comprehensive analysis of sociology textbooks because if sufficient number of today's generation of youth are weaned away from the basic elements in our American way of life — faith in God, our Constitutional Republic, and our private enterprise economic system — some form of Nationalism will be established.

This would be playing right into the hands of the Communists and Socialists — when as a matter of fact the nation's best hope for continuing freedom and progress lies in the education of our youth to the values of these basic American elements and to the fact that they are the only way to destroy them. America has an unusually large percentage of its

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable From Local Welfare

Taxpayer's Dollar, a publication of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, recently summarized the government's present financial situation and speculated on what may be expected in the near future. Some of the facts involved are depressing — others give grounds for optimism.

First of all, during the fiscal year which ended on the last day of June, the U. S. Treasury took in more money in taxes than in any years in our history. Yet when the books were closed, the deficit was the largest in history, save for when we were engaged in world wars. One reason for this was that revenues, great as they were, did not reach the estimates. A second is that even though a new Administration was in power for five months of the fiscal year, the spending was a reflection of the programs and policies established by the preceding Administration.

June is always a big spending month, and this June lived up to past precedent with a vengeance. According to Taxpayer's Dollar, 52 budgets carried in the Daily Treasury Statement, 32 were higher this June than last. It is a matter of interest that 25 of these 32 concerned non-defense activities. Spending actually declined on some defense projects, including the atomic energy program. The biggest jump of all was registered by the Commodity Credit Corporation — up 1109 per cent over June, 1952. Second was the Production and Marketing Administration, up 631 per cent. Other rises included the Forest Service, 65 per cent; Office of Education, 45 per cent, and the Legislative Branch, 28 per cent.

Across the Desk
Ideas from other editors

From the Shamokin Citizen, Shamokin, Pennsylvania: Of all the men who have come in conflict with the House Un-American Activities Committee, none has acquitted himself so well as Methodist Bishop C. Drenley Oxniam. Angry because he believed publicly released by the committee from a file kept on his activities suggested he was a Communist sympathizer, the bishop requested the hearing to clear up "inaccuracies and misrepresentations."

Usually the advance publicity given to men who are to appear before the committee puts them at a severe disadvantage. Frustrated by quasi-judicial procedure that puts the burden on them to prove themselves free of the Communist taint, many explode in emotional tirades against the committee, directing more suspicion against themselves. The applause that greeted the bishop's jabs against the methods of the committee indicated his fiery defense of his activities had won the spectators' support.

The bishop did not quibble about the question of Communism. He did not seek the shelter of the Fifth Amendment against incriminating himself. He definitely stated that he was no Communist. He made no apology for his membership in organizations which he believed were helping to free people from oppression.

Education in high school and college more to numbers than to the other nations combined. It is this group from which our na-

You learn from your experience
Of life, O sister, brother —
You days should be a blending of

And days both glorious and dour
Our lives will lack completeness.

NO COMMENT

by Walter Chamblin, Jr.
A review of the first session of an Eisenhower Congress shows that the new administration undertook the solution of a staggering number of problems which have vexed the nation, especially business, for years.

The record of things completed is not as long as the record of things to be completed, as it was found that answers to many of the problems were not at hand and that further study was needed to obtain the right answers. These studies are under way and it can be predicted without fear of contradiction that the next Congress will be one of the busiest ever assembled on Capitol Hill.

Mr. Eisenhower, his cabinet and his party in Congress were forced to operate much as an army caught in a valley with an enemy manning the heights. At every maneuver, they were fired upon from the heights. And hear in mind that the Capitol Republicans had experience only in defensive operations and many of the privates and lieutenants were trained to operate as individual units rather than in mass formation.

But Mr. Eisenhower's biggest obstacle . . . and it has yet to be overcome . . . was the vast army of well-entrenched bureaucrats inherited from the past administrations. This force still commands most of the policy-making posts in government and is reluctant to change its ways or philosophy.

Poll after poll taken throughout the country has shown the public clamoring for a settlement of the Korean War, better international relations, a balanced budget and an end to deficit spending so that tax reduction could be effected. Mr. Eisenhower met the issues.

The fighting has stopped in Korea. International policy is slowly being changed. Food for East Germany is causing a major convulsion in the Red satellite orbit. Americans returning from abroad report that the new United States diplomatic staff is functioning more efficiently.

The budget has not been balanced but steps have been taken to bring it within balance during the next two years. This session the Congress cut the budget recommendations of Mr. Truman from $137 billion to $101 billion, or by $37 billion. The administration now is attempting to reduce expenses even further so as to avoid any increase in the debt limit either at a special October session or at the regular session next winter.

By readjusting various policies, Mr. Eisenhower has moved to return the nation toward normal peacetime economy. The administration ended wage and price controls, a move long sought by business. It also has virtually terminated all rent control, which has been in effect for 13 years. It has moved in many other directions to get government out of competition with private business.

Changes in the Taft-Hartley Law still are under study by a Congressional-White House Committee. A preliminary draft which has been published is not the final draft and a number of persons familiar with the situation are of the opinion that there is more excitement than is justified.

Slowly, the Eisenhower administration is changing the political complexion of many of the independent commissions, agencies and boards which through rulings and interpretations have harassed the entire business world.

Also, for the first time in 20 years, new life is being injected into the federal judiciary through the appointment of persons not imbued with New Deal-Fair Deal thinking.

Baugerite, N. Y. Catalik Mountain Star: "The economists, trying to trim 'big government,' find it hard going. It's easy to start a Federal project or bureau, but hard to get rid of it. For instance, the NRA — found unconstitutional in 1935 — still appears in the Federal budget. The time has come to get rid of uneeded bureaus and be chary of starting any new ones."

DALE CARNEGIE

AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING"

JAMES W. ROXIN, 7838 Laurel Grove Avenue, North Hollywood, California, gives you a story that he believes will help those who are carrying heavy loads.

Thirteen years ago on a cold February night an explosion shook the little town of Cass Lake, Minnesota, and with it snuffed out the lives of three men, three men who happened to be friends of James Roxin; men he had worked with side by side for three years. He had parted from them just fifteen minutes before the explosion. A huge stationary boiler in the boiler room had undergone extensive repair for two months previously. In testing the boiler for possible leaks at high pressure, the safety valve had been screwed down tight, and the responsible person for this test failed to unscrew the safety valve when tests were completed. That night a fire was started in the firebox to build up steam, and as James went by the boiler on his way home, a glance at the corner of his eye at the steam gauge told him the needle was beyond the safety point. But he didn't stop to analyze the gauge. He was interested in the fun he was going to have after he got home.

For two years after this he says he wasn't much good to anyone, including himself. Grief and a guilty conscience weighed him down. He says he will never forget the tragedy — it will remain in his sub-conscious mind so long as he lives. But he knows he must go on, he can't stop living. But he has found something that gives him peace of mind — something he has tried and found good. That is, meditation with Someone greater than himself, and which he believes to be the greatest Peacemaker the world has ever known.

Scanning the NEWS

LIKE last year's apparel congressional investigating committees are not as fashionable as they once were. There was a time when congressmen were fighting to get on a committee that continued to make headlines. But of late, Washington observers have noted that congressional committees are getting bad press notices and it is becoming unfashionable that is, unwise politically — to be associated with them.

Three investigating committees have just had themselves a session of bad press releases and it appears that as a result a number of committees will have their activities restricted in the near future.

Senator McCarthy's group, of course, heads the list. The senator received a mild spanking when he was stopped in his proposed investigation of the Central Intelligence Agency, when Democratic members of his committee resigned and refused his invitation to return, and when GOP leaders told him bluntly to tone down his antics.

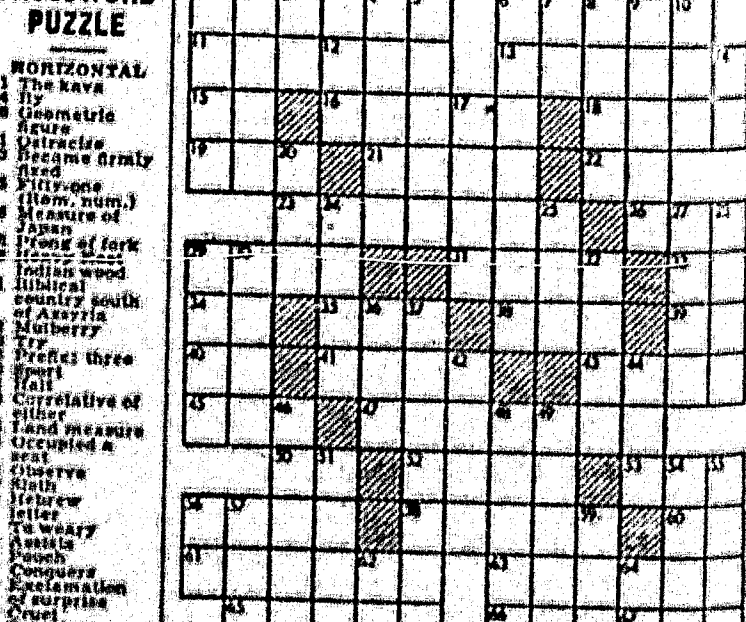

Trouble has also developed in Representative Clare E. Hoffman's House Government Operations Committee when members refused to let him record their remarks. Committee members voted to strip the chairman of authority to start investigations. Later Hoffman wanted to record their remarks. This caused a stormy session in which a microphone was hurled from the committee table. The result, Hoffman's power has been curtailed and as he said, "This cuts my throat."

The increase also means a wage increase of one to two cents an hour for some 100,000 workers in aircraft, glass and other industries where contracts are linked to the index.

This demonstration showed me the way to a better deal!

I'd been planning to buy a higher-priced car until I found out all Chevrolet offered—and how much I could save!

You're "sitting pretty" behind the wheel
Take this Bel Air model. First thing you'll notice is the quality of the interior. Rich-looking appointments. Roomy seats with foam rubber cushions. Turn the key to start the engine and you're ready to go.

You can see all around
You look out and down through a wide, curved, one-piece windshield. The panoramic rear window and big side windows provide a clear view in all directions.

Biggest brakes for smoother, easier stops
An easy nudge on the pedal brings smooth, positive response—right now! Chevrolet's improved brakes are the largest in the low-price field.

It's heavier for better roadability
You're in for a pleasant surprise at the smooth, steady, big-car ride of this new Chevrolet. One reason is that, model for model, Chevrolet will weigh up to 200 pounds more than the other low-priced cars.

You get greater getaway with the new Powerglide®
A lot finer performance on a lot less gas. That's what you get with the new Powerglide automatic transmission. There's no more advanced automatic transmission at any price.

Let us demonstrate all the advantages of buying a Chevrolet now!

MORE PEOPLE BUY CHEVROLETS THAN ANY OTHER CARS

You get more power on less gas
That's because Chevrolet's two great valve-in-head engines are high-compression engines. In Powerglide® models, you get the most powerful engine in Chevrolet's field—the new 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame." Gearshift models offer the advanced 108-h.p. "Thrift-King" engine.

And it's the lowest-priced line
A demonstration will show you that Chevrolet offers just about everything you could want. Yet it's the lowest-priced line in the low-price field.

*Combination of Powerglide automatic transmission and 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame" engine optional on "Two-Ten" and Bel Air models at extra cost.

TODAY'S meditation

Thursday, August 13

In him was life; and the life was the light of men. (John 1:4) Read I Peter 1:3-9.

For the first time, a youth new to the faith witnessed to Christ. "Everything was dark," he said, "I had no joy in life. Now I know Jesus, and He is the Light of life."

This young man was a Chinese apprentice, working long hours, even into the night. When he could, he came to the night school taught by young members of the local church. Although as a child in China he had heard of Jesus, it was in Bethel that he accepted the Master.

Jesus not only brings joy into his life but also sends him out to carry the Master's love and joy to others. On weekdays, at dawn, he gets up and goes marketing for the children's home recently opened in Sibu. On Sundays he helps in church services and goes out with other youth to bear the message of the loving God to hospital patients and to people in rural areas.

Do we daily rejoice in the Christian way of life as the young man rejoices in it? Do we share our joy with others as he does his?

Prayer

Father, we thank Thee for the joy Thou has brought into life through Thy Son. Open our eyes to those who stumble in darkness and doubt. Help us to lead them to Thy light and share with them the life abundant. In His name. Amen.

Thought For This Day

My joy in the faith increases as I share it. —Muriel C. Pilley (Bethel)

Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore get wisdom and with all thy getting, get understanding. (Proverbs 4:7)

It is not essential that one go to college to get wisdom—he may get it from reading the Word of God deeply and reverently and obediently. Then a fuller, better life will come to him, and understanding—the understanding of himself and of his neighbors which makes for humility, and charity.

MUNDT-ALLEN POST SCORECARD IN JUNIOR LEGION TOURNEY

In the four team double elimination baseball tournament held at Fergus July 31, Aug. 1 and 2, Mundt-Allen Post team drew Ray-Godding Post of Presque Isle. Manchester Post of Westbrook drew Alfred W. Maxwell, Jr., Post of Winthrop. Round One: July 31—

Bethel vs. Presque Isle

Dick Batherson, slugging first baseman, and teammate Johnny Chase led a twenty-one hit assault in behalf of Mundt-Allen Post of Bethel, collecting four hits each, as the home team topped Presque Isle 21-10.

Merle White, starting Bethel pitcher, was relieved in the third, after giving up five hits, by win-near Bobby Legere, who held the boys from Aroostook to five hits in six and two-thirds innings. The young right-hander also played a good offensive game, collecting three hits for five at bats.

The loosely played game was the scene for fourteen errors, seven by each club.

Westbrook defeated Winthrop 7-1 in the first game, hence, Bethel faced Westbrook in the second game Aug. 1.

Round Two: Aug. 1

Bethel vs. Westbrook

Everyone on the Bethel nine hit in a game that turned out to be a slug-fest, as Bethel trounced Westbrook 23-11. Six of the twenty-three runs came in the first inning on four hits, a wild pitch and a fielding error, as the hard-hitting Bethel club slaughtered the starting pitcher, Aube, before the first out of the game was made. Eleven Bethel batters came to the plate in this inning that proved hectic for Westbrook. Never in the game was there any real threat by the losers. Bethel piled up two more runs in the second, four in the sixth, eight big ones in the seventh and three in the ninth to gather twenty-three runs on twenty-six hits.

Chase and Batherson continued to lead the club as each collected five hits in seven trips, along with outfielder Merle White. Howdy Rolfe went all the way for Bethel, helping his own cause with three hits for six trips to the plate.

Winthrop defeated Presque Isle 3-2 in the first game of the afternoon; hence, Westbrook again faced Winthrop in the first game Sunday. Bethel plays the winner of this game.

Round Three: Aug. 2—

Bethel vs. Westbrook

Bethel suffered its first defeat at the hands of a revengeful Westbrook.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Mrs. Stanley Narbert, Lumberport, W. Va.: I remember my grandmother's "spare" room. The floor was covered with straw matting, so cool and peaceful looking. Also, Grandmother's treasured "toilet set," consisting of a large water pitcher, decorated with immense red and yellow roses, and a wash bowl to match.

From Ellen A. Stewart, North Highlands, California: I remember when my father paid the grocery bill the grocer would always give him a big bag of mixed candy in striped bags. We used to buy gum that came in small round tins, with five pieces of gum to the tin which was the size of a quarter.

From Iva C. Oliver, Perry, Florida: I remember when I was a child of about 10 my brothers and six children who were our neighbors, took me on a "hot gathering" party. We started early one Saturday morning in October, taking baskets of lunch for a picnic at noon. A jug of water and two sacks to be filled with nuts.

I lived in southeast Missouri, and the trip was some 8 or 9 miles to the Mississippi river bottoms where there was an abundance of hickory trees and some pecan trees. On this trip we brought home enough nuts to last throughout the winter, for eating after supper and for mother to use in making delicious nut cakes and candies.

The day was seen spent, and we made the long trip back home in an old wagon pulled by two mules, reaching home after dark and ready for a good warm supper. This outing took place about 60 years ago.

brook nine, as they were held to three runs to their opponents' six, and Westbrook captured a double-header (having won over Winthrop 5-1 earlier in the afternoon). Each club collected seven hits, and each committed one error in the best and closest-played game of the tourney.

Chase and Batherson continued to hang out hits, each getting two for five, equalled in this game only by Westbrook's first baseman Estes.

Kolfe again started on the mound for Bethel, lasting three innings, and charged with the loss; both Legere and White acted in relief.

Winning pitcher Aube, victim of a slaughter the day before, held the slugger Bethel team to six hits in eight and a third inning; Westbrook ace Billy Hamilton checked a rally in the ninth, escaping with two-run damage.

Round Four: Aug. 3—

Bethel vs. Westbrook

Mundt-Allen Post of Bethel suffered its second defeat in as many days as Westbrook won 8-2, coping the Maine (State) Junior Legion title.

The hard-hitting Bethel club was allowed only eight hits off Westbrook ace Billy Hamilton, unanimous choice for tourney's most outstanding player, which pitched all three Westbrook wins.

The first three Bethel men up in the sixth inning reached safely; however, the belated Bethel rally was held at two runs, their only two of the game.

The last inning of this game was the scene of the first triple play of the tourney, performed by Bethel's White, pitcher, Batherson, at first, and Onofrio, at second.

The Bethel club was commended for its outstanding hitting and good sportsmanship. The runner-up team set records in hitting, double plays and stolen bases.

Honorable mentions for the outstanding player award, chosen by four big league scouts, were slugger infielders of the Bethel team, Dick Batherson and Johnny Chase; each came out of the tourney, after playing four straight games, with a better than .500 batting average.

Leading his team in RBIs was Bob Downs, Bethel's fast-moving shortstop, with eight; five of these were collected in the first game. Trimback, track-star, center-fielder for Bethel, led in stolen bases with four in three games, two in the last game. Catcher for all four Bethel games was Art Taylor, who played good games both defensively and offensively, for he completed tourney play with a .333 play batting average, and assisted or called many infield plays from his advantageous post behind the plate.

Pitchers Legere, White, and Rolfe took outfield positions when not on the mound.

Special message to fans:

Coach "Spec" Guernsey and Manager Charles Pendleton of the Mundt-Allen Junior Legion Baseball team wish to thank publicly all those of you who aided the club with money, transportation, and attendance. We also wish to remind you that just because the tourney's over doesn't mean that we're all through baseball. There'll be more games; in fact, the boys want to keep playing until school starts this fall, and they need and like your backing just as much now

MONHEGAN ISLAND STORY

Maline's storied Monhegan Island, outpost sentinel in Penobscot Bay, is the subject of Charles "Chuck" Rawlings' latest story about Maine in this week's Saturday Evening Post.

The article, entitled "Lobster Town," reveals the secret of the Monhegan Islanders' enviable record as the highlanders of Maine's far flung lobstering industry.

Unleashing Monhegan's usual associations with a historical past and romantic, isolated present, Rawlings presents the story of "how the men of the little two-and-a-half-square-mile rocky island have made their fishery a fine way of life, prosperous, dignified, happy."

The author calls it "a conservation story with a certain nobility about it." The Monhegan lobstermen figured a way to trap more, eat more, and sell more by cutting their season to half. A two mile area around the island is the only stretch of lobstering waters closed, by act of legislature, six months of every year. This was done in 1907 by petition of the Monhegan lobstermen themselves and has resulted in a stable and healthy economy for the Islanders through good times and bad.

According to the Maine Publicity Bureau's review of this story, Chuck Rawlings' "Lobster Town" portrays the Monhegan lobster men as practical, hard working businessmen who have combined their knowledge of the ways of the sea and the profits from the lobster industry for a profitable and happy way of life on Monhegan's compact little island.

The story is illustrated with full-color pictures of the island and its people taken by Post staff photographer, Ivan Smith.

V. A. NEWS LETTER

Maine veterans who became seriously disabled in their country's service anywhere in the world during World War II or the Korean campaign are assured all the vocational rehabilitation necessary to overcome the handicap of their disabilities, according to M. Y. Stoddard, Manager, Veterans Administration Center, Togus, Maine.

Three requirements must be met before VA can assist a disabled veteran in attaining the educational or vocational objective for which he is best suited.

First, explained Stoddard, the veteran must have a discharge other than dishonorable. Second, his service-connected disability must have been received during either World War II or the Korean campaign, and must be serious enough to entitle to compensation payments from VA.

Third, and most important, the veteran must be in need of specialized training to overcome the handicap of his disability.

VA's two-way approach to the task of vocational rehabilitation for disabled veterans consists of a medical and counseling team aimed at restoring their employability.

Stoddard said that vocational counselors are trained and equipped to assist the men in making a choice of school, on-the-job training or on-the-farm training, based on each man's individual physical and mental abilities and aptitudes.

Each training plan is tailor-made so that it doesn't exceed a man's capacity to learn, or to work after training is completed. In addition to considering the veteran's physical limitations, the counselor tries to channel him into a field in which he will have a reasonable guarantee of earning a living.

VA provides for tuition, fees, books, supplies, and equipment in connection with its program to restore disabled veterans to self-sufficiency.

This year special mention should be made of the co-operation and generosity of those contributing to the cost of this operation which was successfully met, with a small sum to spare for next year.

Pvt. Laurice W. Lord of Bethel, Maine, has arrived at Fort Dix, N. J., and has been assigned to Service Battalion, 24th F. A. Bn., of the 9th Infantry Division for eight weeks of basic training.
